Planet Mechanics - 8 x 50min series for National Geographic

Dick Strawbridge and Jem Stansfield are engineers with an eye on the environment. Their mission: to Fix the World. This brand new 8-part series pits engineering know-how against ever increasing environmental problems. Each week Dick and Jem are called in to address a localized situation. Once they've uncovered the problem and audited the environmental impact, they pool their collective brain power and design a green solution. Recruiting leading experts where appropriate and members of the public where possible, they set to with their angle grinders, welding kits and an insurmountable collection of power tools to craft some of the most striking eco-engineering machines ever to grace the small screen. They are, the Planet Mechanics.
